CUT HER THROAT

With a Razor, Allegation of One Plaintiff.

Several divorce suits have been filed here this week.

Phoebe Tucker sues for legal separation from Clarence Tucker. They were married in 1898 and lived together until August, 1903, when plaintiff states that the defendant cruelly assaulted her with a razor and cut her throat, and thinking her dead, fled to Clarksville.

Suberia Farrar sues Geo. Farrar. They were married in 1896, in Tennessee, but are now residents of this county. Plaintiff alleges that they separated in January, 1898, since which time they have lived apart.

Agnes Reese wants a divorce from Bailey Reese, and charges abandonment.

Addie Brent prays a divorce from Alfred Brent. The petitioner states that they were married in 1897 and lived together as man and wife until the year 1892, when they separated.

Montague Wilson Maddox vs Scott Maddox, Jr., is the style of another suit. Plaintiff states that they were married in 1897 and a short time after the wedding the defendant deserted her.

F. S. Cathoun files suit against Ollie Calhoun. They were married near Bainbridge in June, 1903, and in October of the same year defendant abandoned him, says plaintiff, in his petition for a legal separation.

Col. F. G. Ewing, Mr. Allen, Mr. Fort and other good speakers will probably be on hand. It is expected to be largely attended and the occasion will be an important one in several respects. The farmers of the vicinity will entertain everybody with the unstinted hospitality characteristic of the people of the best county in Kentucky.

SUCCESSFUL SEASON

Lyceum Course Netted Nearly $300 For Tabernacle.

The Lyceum course of the Tabernacle has closed with a successful season in spite of the late start and the disadvantages encountered. Mr. H. L. McPherson, to whom the success was due, has been re-elected as manager and has been able to turn over to the Tabernacle from $250 to $300 in profits. He is already booking attractions for next year and will do much better another year. He is a fine man for this kind of work and the people thoroughly appreciate his efforts to provide them with these platform entertainments.

MONUMENT

To The Late Dr. John O. Rust.

A committee, representing the citizens of Nashville, came to this city last Monday with authority to remove the remains of the late Rev. J. O. Rust to that place. So dear was Dr. Rust to the people of Nashville that they have determined to erect a monument to his memory. His body and those of his two children were exhumed under the supervision of Waller & Rogers and shipped to Nashville Monday afternoon.

GOOD LUCK

Comes to Mr. A. A. Winfree in the Shape of $104.

Tuesday morning when Mrs. Alex. Winfree left home to come into the city to attend the meeting of the Woman's Christian Missionary Association her husband handed her $104 in money and his bank book, telling her to deposit the money in one of the city banks. Mrs. Winfree occupied a seat in a car with Miss Jones, of Pembroke. When the train reached Hopkinsville the two ladies got off the train, leaving their bundles behind them, and it was several hours before they realized that they had ever had bundles in their possession. When Rev. J. W. Gant, of Elkton passed through the aisle of the car he noticed a couple of bundles lying on the floor, which he picked up and handed to the conductor, who indifferently tossed them up into the bundle rack overhead. After Mrs. Winfree realized that she had lost her husband's money that he had given her to deposit in his bank she telegraphed Capt. Robinson, conductor of train No. 52, and reached him somewhere between here and St. Louis. He wired back that he had both the ladies' bundles and that he would send them back on train No. 51 yesterday afternoon due at 5:18. Mr. Winfree, who is a merchant at Casey, is to be congratulated on his good luck, and no doubt thinks he owes a good treat to both Mr. Gant and the conductor of No. 52.

Tobacco Coming in With a Regular Rush.

Receipts of the weed were again very heavy for the week just past and sales were very good. The association warehouses are getting a full share and are rapidly filling up. The work of pricing in this branch of the business is progressing nicely and much of that brought in is now ready for the market.

Loose receipts on the floor Tuesday amounted to probably fifty thousand pounds, all disposed of at satisfactory figures. The sales on the floor today are expected to be heavier than those of the first of the week.

Hoghead receipts continue good.

SUES FOR $2,000.

Young Woman of Sinking Fork Seeks Damages.

Willie Bell Owen, by her guardian, has sued the I. C. railroad for $1,950 and $50 damages. She states in her petition that one day in this month she purchased a ticket here for Green's Crossing, and when she attempted to get aboard the cars, the train gave a sudden jerk, throwing her to the ground and dragging her twenty-five feet, and that two of her ribs were broken and she sustained other serious injuries. She further charges that the accident was due to the gross negligence and carelessness of the company's employees in moving the train without warning.

CAN'T MAKE A MISTAKE.

All Hopkinsville People Have to Do Is to Follow Their Neighbor's Advice.

Our readers have no excuse for going astray. The way is always hedged with guide posts in Hopkinsville. They are on every highway and byway. "He who runs may read." Investigate this example. C. B. Eades, of the firm of Eades & Davis, proprietors of the coal yard on Seventh street and the L. & N. R. R. and who lives at 402 East Seventh street, says: "I saw Doan's Kidney Pills advertised and so highly recommended by persons who had used them that I went to Thomas & Trahern's drug store, procured a box and gave them a thorough trial. I had suffered for a long time with a heavy pain across the small of my back, sharp and acute at times. When I caught cold it always settled in my back and there followed a weakness of the kidneys which was exasperating especially at night. I tried various remedies but none of them gave anything like as satisfactory results as I obtained from the use of Doan's Kidney Pills. I am pleased to say that they brought me great relief. I have recommended the pills and will continue to do so to all my friends and acquaintances."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50c. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y., sole agents for the United States. Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

IN HER NIGHTIES,

She is said to have left home in her night clothes in order to elude her watchful parents. The couple drove to a neighbors, where Miss Rose borrowed clothes and shoes to marry in. SPOILED THE GOOD EFFECT

He Would Have Certainly Saved Her Life But Engage Was the Other Way.

He had for days been trying to gain an encouraging look from the deadenful damped, and now last it seemed to the young man that his chances, the chance of a lifetime—had arrived.

She had been tripping over the common in front of him, but in crossing the railway line she appeared to have got her foot fixed in the points, for she stood and screamed lustily.

The young man dashed like lightning to her assistance, for only a few hundred yards away the headlight of an engine glowed through the dusk.

"Courage!" he cried. "Don't struggle, Miss Bellairs—Arminata! I will save you." And he whipped out his penknife.

"Oh, don't!" she exclaimed. "I must," he insisted: "It is the only way."

She tried to protest, but grasping her waist with one protesting arm he stopped and cut the shoelaces. Then, wrenching her foot from the shoe, he threw her freely, shod on the track. With the effort he lost his balance, but with his presence of mind, for with a spring like that of a fish he hurled himself from the metals to the side of the rails.

He arose, panting and breathless, to find the young lady angrily trying to brush the mud from her gown.

"You hateful man!" she exclaimed.

For a moment he was stupefied. "Why—what—I beg your pardon," he stammered.

"You've spoiled my best dress," she said, viciously; "you've cut my foot and ruffled my hair. I'm in a dreadful state. And I kept trying to tell you that the engine was going the other way!"

He looked up the line mechanically. Yes, it was true. The engine was nearly out of sight.

"I detest a man who hasn't any sense," she said, as she climbed the bank and limped away, while the young man, a blighted and dejected object, turned to muse on the perversity of women and the fatality of everything.

ON ABSENCE OF THE NOSE

Without This Organ Life Would Not Be Worth Living—One Form of Punishment.

As the learned physician has observed, "the nose is a very becoming part of the face" and its value in this respect is never fully appreciated until it is lost. Such a deprivation, however it may have been brought about, entails the sufferer extreme misery. The absence of a nose is so utterly obvious that it must be seen by every one, and the effect on the patient may be much greater than might have been anticipated. "The patient consequently shuns society and every appearance in public, and often is oppressed with self-loathing and a sense of almost amounting to the blackest despair." A nose may be lost by accident or through gangrene from cold, and Maigneuvre has described a case in which the organ was congenitally absent; but undoubtedly the absence of a nose is in many cases to be attributed to a less reputable cause, and it is not improbable that this popular description of the origin of the lesion is, in part at least, the explanation of the very great mental effect of the loss of a nose.

In some parts of the world, especially Italy and India, it has been customary to employ removal of the nose as a form of punishment, sometimes judicial, but chiefly as a mode of carrying out private revenge. Especially in some districts of India it could be a suitable form of punishment for a husband to inflict on a wife whose conduct he does not approve. Among the Romans this penalty was not at all rarely inflicted, both by law and private animosity. Inasmuch as the evil was especially prevalent in certain countries, it would not be unreasonable to expect that methods of treatment should first arise there, and so it proved; the countries which were prominent in possessing numbers of suitable subjects for operation were the first in which operations were performed and practiced for the relief of the individual.

CRUDE OIL.

Money is made by keeping a barrel of Crude Oil on hand and using it on your hogs, and feed that you give them. It will cause your hogs to grow and prevent cholera and other diseases. If your horses have scratches, colic, flesh-cuts, or sprains, Crude Oil is the cheapest and best thing you can use. If your hen-house has mites in it saturate it with Crude Oil and you will soon be rid of them. If you have fire to build Crude Oil is the best and cheapest kind of you can get. If your barn has fleas in it, use Crude Oil and you will soon have no fleas. Fence posts saturated with this oil before setting will last fully twice as long. To give some idea as to the beneficial results its use among hogs produces, I will say that in the years of 1897-8 I fed and handled about two thousand hogs in a lot of 12 acres situated on a hill and containing a pond and spring, and when needed I would empty a barrel of oil in the pond, and the hogs would immediately rush into it and shortly afterwards shed off, looking like different hogs. I never lost a solitary hog out of the whole number from any kind of disease.

Price of Oil—Per barrel $3, or five barrels for $12.50. f. o. b. bars. Send check with order and it will receive prompt attention.

NEXT HIGHEST BAPTIST IN ALL AMERICA

Dr. J. N. Prestridge, Secretary of the United Association.

TO WORLD CONGRESS.

Distinguished Editor Once Pastor of the Hopkinsville Baptist Church.

At St. Louis the Baptists of America, North and South, of Canada and the nearby islands, have entered into a great common body, the General Baptist Convention of America. Dr. J. N. Prestridge, editor of the Baptist Argus, of this city, is secretary, and the headquarters of the General Baptist Convention have been located in Louisville, at 350 Third avenue. When the Baptist World Congress, London, July 1-13, 1905, became assured a call was made by Dr. H. L. Moorehouse, of New York City, for this organization of the Baptists of America, a constitution and by-laws were adopted and a second meeting was ordered for next May, the time and place being left to the executive committee. A subcommittee was appointed to secure the meetings of the Southern Baptist Convention and the Northern societies next May in the same or nearby cities so that the General Baptist Convention may meet between the sessions of these bodies, as it did in St. Louis, and so have a general attendance.

Great enthusiasm prevailed in St. Louis, and prophecies were freely made by both sides of a new era for the Baptist denomination. The new body will not interfere with the organization, and work of either of the other bodies. It is fitting that Louisville should become the headquarters of the United Baptists of America. The Baptist World Congress was born and shaped in Louisville. A large number of messengers from Kentucky will sail the last of June for London to attend this meeting. Among them is President E. Y. Mullins, Courier-Journal.

It is a source of profound pride here in Hopkinsville that Dr. Prestridge, who will go to London as one of the principal officers of the highest Baptist body in America, was once the popular pastor of the local church. He voluntarily resigned his charge here, after marrying a Christian country girl, a daughter of Dr. J. D. Clardy, and for the last ten years has engaged in journalism. Dr. Prestridge is almost certain to be an officer of the World's Congress.

THE SINS OF THE FATHER.

Georgia Bishop Tells Story of How Sins of Fathers Descend on Harmless Offspring.

Bishop Rawdon, of Georgia, illustrated the other day a well known text with an anecdote in the New York Tribune.

"There was once a hod carrier," he said, "whose name was Jerome McWade. Jerome was working on a job in the country last summer, and in order to reach the railroad station to take the train home, it was necessary for him each evening to cross a large, flat field.

"There was a small bull in this field one evening, and it gave Jerome a terrible chase. He fled like the wind before it for more than a mile, and only escaped just in time, by making a wonderful leap over a five-foot fence.

"The next evening, on his homeward way, Jerome carried his rifle with him for a weapon. Swinging the heavy load he entered the field fearlessly, but this time the bull was absent. Only a calf, a playful, harmless little calf, could Jerome find. He approached the calf, and, being greatly excited, and determined to be revenged, he struck the little animal a violent blow with his hod, at the same time exclaiming loudly: "Take that, and tell your father Jerome McWade did it!"

JONAH AND JOE-NAH.

And then said every one to his fellow, Come, and let us cast lots, that we may know for whose cause this evil is upon us. So they cast lots and the lot fell upon Jonah.

CHAPTER I.

We are told that "History repeats itself" and "there is nothing new under the sun."

The object of this book in four chapters will be to show that both of these adages are true.

A little more than twenty-eight centuries ago, Jonah, the son of Amittai, received a call amounting to a divine command to arise and go to Nineveh. Instead of going to Nineveh, he found a ship and set sail for Tarshish. His disobedience caused a mighty storm to be stirred up at sea and the ship was in great danger of being sunk by the tempest. The mariners were superstitious enough to believe that some one of the passengers aboard was causing the commotion of the waters, and while discussing the affair with blanched faces and fear in their hearts, the words at the head of this article were uttered and "the lot fell upon Jonah."

From that day to this, down through the succeeding centuries, an unwelcome or trouble-producing passenger has been called a Jonah. The sailors, we are told, threw Jonah overboard and "the sea ceased from raging." What happened to Jonah afterwards will be explained in another chapter.

In this good year of our Lord 1906, history has repeated itself, if we may ask pardon for a seeming irreverence, claiming license under the proverb "Vox populi, vox dei"—the voice of the people is the voice of God.

Our friend, Joe Moseley, whom we will call Joe-nah for short, was called upon by 400 of the people to rise up and go in the direction of the sheriff's office and warn the occupants that they must prepare to move out. Joe-nah set sail on the political sea, but instead of obeying the command of the people, he started in an opposite direction with his gaze fixed on the senatorial Tarshish.

His disobedience has caused a terrible tempest and the mariners have investigated until the Democrats of two counties know full well who has disturbed the placidity of the party waters. The lots have been cast and "the lot has fallen upon Joe-nah."

Joe-nah was accordingly taken up, regretfully but firmly and cast forth into the tidal waves of popular disapprobation.

It had to be done. No man is greater than the public power and will. Joe-nah was told to go to one place and he insisted upon going to another where his presence was not needed, thereby causing "evil to fall upon" his party. He was thrown overboard because it was not only necessary, but was in reality the best thing that could happen for Joe-nah. This will become apparent as the story proceeds.

The next chapter will deal with

"The Whale That Swallowed Joe-nah."

"THE WHALE THAT SWALLOWED JOE-NAH."

And Jonah was in the belly of the fish three days and three nights.—Jonah I: 17.

CHAPTER II.

In our last chapter we left our ancient Jonah floundering in the waters of a troubled sea, where he was soon swallowed up by a great fish and remained for 72 hours in his uncomfortable quarters. He was finally "vomited upon dry land."

When our modern Joe-nah was set adrift in the political soup tureen, he was immediately swallowed up by "a great fish," a Huge Whale, who protested that he had nothing to do with "bringing him out" even while gulping him down. And the Huge Whale spoke the literal truth, for he did not bring Joe-nah out—he brought him in. Once inside, Joe-nah set himself to hard thinking.

"Here I am," he reasoned, "inside this H. W., with no prospect of ever being either sheriff or senator, so long as I am in this fix. How to get out is now the question that puzzles this candidate. It is true I am getting along swimmingly, but suppose some one were to harpoon the Whale for the oil that is in him, then where would Joe-nah be?"

The more Joe-nah thought about it the more he wanted to get out, and so he began to kick so vigorously and persistently that he became a troublesome lodger and finally the Whale not only consented for him to move but assisted him to vacate, and the first thing Joe-nah did was to publicly declare that the Whale was surprised when he "came out." Of course it was quite natural that Joe-nah should tell a fishy story after the experience he had gone through. Some one may say that I had not gone through the experience, since he came out the same way he went in, but this is a technical difference that really doesn't matter, considering the inside information he gained while making the round trip. But now that we have gotten Joe-nah safe outside the H. W., the next chapter will tell about "The Gourd Vine That Sheltered Joe-nah."

THE GOURD VINE THAT SHELTERED JOE-NAH.

And the Lord prepared a gourd, and made it to come up over Jonah, that it might be a shadow over his head, to deliver him from his grief. So Jonah was exceedingly glad of the gourd.—Jonah IV: 6.

CHAPTER III.

After Jonah got rid of his whale, or the whale got rid of his Jonah, as the case may have been, Jonah faced about, and, as Sam Jones said, "struck a trot for Nineveh." He found, however, that the road intended for him at Nineveh was not then needed and Jonah went outside the walls of the city and sat down on the sunny side of the wall, in that tropical country, to cool off and that "he might see what would become of the city."

Then it was that the Lord in his goodness caused a gourd vine to spring up in a single night and shelter him from the fierce heat of the sun the next day.

So Joe-nah when he found nothing doing around the city he had expected to create a sensation in, naturally took a day off to see what would become of the city. In the meantime, however, he was not idle. He was in need of something of the kind which would thus it was that a Gourd Vine came to his rescue. Whether or not the Gourd Vine was a sweet-scented one or one of an ordinary gourd vine that would not eat, we are not able to positively assert. One thing, however, is quite well established. The Gourd Vine, of the G. V., as we will call it, to save ink, was of sudden growth. It did not grow up in a single night, perhaps, but it sprang into notice without warning to the public and flourished luxuriantly for a short while. If you read your Bibles like you ought to, you will find that just as Jonah was enjoying himself most under the shade of the vine, along came a worm "and gnawed the gourd that it withered."

And so our Joe-nah found rather poor shelter under his G. V. Just when it seemed about to cover the whole wall something happened to it. Guess what it was? Along came a worm hunting something green to feed upon and what should it do but find Joe-nah's great and only G. V. Oh! cruel fate! Oh! destroying worm! You will ask, perhaps, how a mere worm could ruin a great umbrageous vine large enough to shelter Joe-nah, head and all. Here is how it was done. The worm knew how to bore. He picked out a soft place on the cool side of the vine and began to put in sixteen hours a day boring. He bored the vine and in the end he bored Joe-nah and that worm is still busy. But perhaps we had better save a chapter to tell about

"The Worm That Bored For Joe-nah."

THE WORM.

And the sun beat down upon the head of Jonah, that he fainted and wished within himself to die, and said, It is better for me to die than to live.—Jonah IV: 8.

CHAPTER IV.

Jonah I, when he lost his gourd vine, fainted under the relentless heat of summer in a country where they look for frost when the mercury drops below 100 in the shade. Jonah was in such a hot box that he no doubt wished he was back in the headquarters of the Huge Whale, where he could at least keep cool.

After Joe-nah II lost his Gourd Vine, and there was nothing else green for the worm to feed upon, he staid with Joe-nah. The borer said to Joe-nah, "There is no doubt of the fact that it is getting too warm for both of us here, but if you will follow me I can find a nice cool place about thirty miles to the north, where the climate is mild and pleasant and I can bore vines while you bore the people."

And Joe-nah departed, in company with the Worm that bored the Gourd Vine, that sheltered Joe-nah after he escaped from the Whale that swallowed him when he was pitched into the soup.

Have you seen them? If not, look out, for they are coming. Get a Cold Cream ready for Joe-nah, but use insect powder on the Worm.

Now, who is Joe-nah's Worm? For the first correct answer to this puzzle in politics, we will give a Jug of Butter and a pound of Jersey Butter.

This prize is suggested by the fact that the book of Jonah closes with the words "much cattle."

"Two years ago I came to Hot Springs to take the baths and be treated for bladder and kidney trouble. After spending two months here under the care of one of the most prominent physicians and receiving little or no benefit, I was persuaded to try Pe-ru-na. I had little faith in it, but after using one bottle I noticed a marked improvement. Three bottles entirely cured me. I can cheerfully recommend Pe-ru-na to any one afflicted as I was."—Fred R. "Neglected colds, irregular habits and overwork brought on serious kidney and bladder trouble. My blood seemed informed with poison, my stomach became entirely demoralized, a bad odor emanated from my urine, and I realized I was a sick man. The doctors found me to their heart's content, but I kept growing worse. Then fortune brought Pe-ru-na to my notice and I at once began to mend. I kept taking it for five months before I was completely cured. I feel now that I owe my life to Pe-ru-na and will never cease to be grateful."—Thomas M. Hicks.

They are especially exposed to the inclemency of the weather and a number who caught cold, which later developed into pneumonia, kidney or liver trouble, were cured through the use of Pe-ru-na."—S. Mrs. Manning Brown delivered the address of welcome. Mrs. J. B. LaRue, of Owensboro, responded on behalf of the delegates. Mrs. Elizabeth Gish Seargent, who was elected President of the Board last year, delivered a well prepared and interesting address, in which the great work of the past year was presented and the call for faithful service for the coming year was impressed upon her auditors.

Mrs. Jas. A. Young, Secretary and Treasurer of the Board, made her annual report.

Mrs. Sarah Yancey, State Secretary, entertained the audience at the Tuesday morning session with a beautiful address, which cannot fail of inspiring the women for more earnest service in the future.

The afternoon session was taken up in the hearing reports from district managers and reports of committees but an interesting feature of the program was the "Children's Hour," conducted by Mr. S. W. Bealford, of Owensboro.

The first session of the 31st annual meeting of the State Kentucky Missionary and Sunday School Association was held on Tuesday night. Prof. H. Clay Smith, in a most appropriate address welcomed the delegates to the city. Dr. A. McLean, of Cincinnati, replied in a most pleasing manner. JOINT SUIT Against I. C. and T. C. Roads Brought Here.

B. Y. Gray, of Julian, on Tuesday filed suit here against the T. C. and I. C. Railroads, jointly, for $1,999.50 damages. The petition states that plaintiff, in April last, purchased a ticket here for Gracely, which is on the I. C. road. Some one cried out "all aboard," when he got on at T. C. train and was taken about three miles out on the line before he discovered his mistake. He states that he informed the conductor of his trouble and was taken on to the next station where he was put off. He states that there was no one on the platform to examine his ticket or give him any information. Plaintiff further states that he was naturally infirm from old age and besides he has been a paralytic since babyhood, with a withered arm, more helpless than a child, and was forced to return to this city alone. He prays damages as above stated "for loss of benefits of trip to Gracely, which was important."

WARMER STILL

Grows the Contest for Most Popular Young Lady.

As the opening day of the big carnival draws nearer the voting for the most popular young lady in the county gets more interesting every day. By a comparison of the vote as published Tuesday and today, it will be seen that Miss Schmidt, though still in second place, has increased her vote 1,001, while Miss Ella Cayce's vote has been increased 877.

It will also be observed that there is a new and important entry into the contest, in the person of Miss Ola Cayce, the popular and attractive book-keeper for J. H. Anderson & Co. Miss Cayce's popularity is widespread throughout the county and she is sure to be an important factor in the race, as she already occupies third place at first entry.

School Entertainment.

Quite a number of friends and neighbors enjoyed the closing exercises of Miss Nettie Shanklin's school last Friday night. The school consists of Messrs. J. C. and R. C. Gary's children, and the entertainment was held at the spacious home of Mr. J. C. Gary. The balcony, being draped in white and fern decorations, made a most appropriate stage, while the audience was seated in the yard. The program consisting of recitations, choruses, solos, quartets, drills, instrumental solos and trios, was most excellently carried out. From the tiniest tots to the largest, all did their parts well, some showing rare talent, indeed. The entertainment, as a whole, was most praiseworthy, both for teacher and pupils.

ROUTE TO REUNION.

Tennessee Veterans Will Come Through the City.

The Tennessee Confederate Veterans committee has adopted the T. C. and its connection as the official route to the reunion at Louisville. A special train will be run from Nashville to Louisville, via Hopkinsville. This route was chosen on account of the Illinois Central station in Louisville being only about one block from the Tennessee headquarters. A rate of one cent a mile will apply from all points in Tennessee.

CAIRO LOST FIRST GAME ON TUESDAY

HIS SUPPORT WAS GOOD

Another Exciting Contest Was In Progress At Press Hour.

Standing to May 23.

Clubs—	Played.	Won.	Lost.	Pct.
Paduach.....	19	14	5	.732
Vincennes.....	19	14	5	.732
Cairo.....	18	9	9	.500
Princeton.....	18	7	11	.388
Henderson.....	19	7	12	.368
Hopkinsville.....	19	5	14	.263

The first of the three games scheduled with Cairo was not played Monday on account of rain. Tuesday's game was a close and well played game, which resulted in a victory for the Browns by a score of 4 to 3. Ashley was in the box for Cairo but Wagner took his place in the seventh inning. Smith twisted for Hopkinsville and developed a fine assortment of curves. Cairo made one score in the first inning and Hopkinsville did the same. Cairo got another in the second and Hopkinsville got one in the fourth, when it looked like two or three were close at hand. In the sixth Cairo made one more and in the eighth Hopkinsville won with two scores. Morris started with a single, Barlow bunted and advanced Morris and was put at first. McAndrews singled and Myers walked, Morris scoring while McAndrews was being put out in an attempt to steal second.

The fans were filled with joy and Smith was warmly congratulated on winning his first game on the home grounds.

The second game was played yesterday, leaving one game postponed. The batteries were Bomar and Rutledge and Waggoner and Pettit.

The Browns go to Princeton today for 3 games and then to Vincennes for 3.

Thomas, 3d baseman, was released Tuesday and Morris is back on 3rd. Thomas has signed with Henderson. Simpson, a new pitcher, has been signed by Manager Rutledge and is now here.

CHAT OFF THE BAT.

At Princeton Monday Princeton beat Paduach by 6 to 5 in an exciting game, bunching their hits at the right time.

At Vincennes Monday, the locals won by a score of 9 to 6. Brown, late of Hopkinsville, was knocked out of the box in the first inning, and Nonnenaker was retired in the end of the sixth by a painful injury to his pitching arm. Lemon was put out of the game in the third inning by being hit by a foul pit.

Cairo has bought Bob Blackburn from Toledo. It is said that the price paid was $350. Two new infielders have also been signed, Hipert, who was in the Three Eye last season, and Allen, who played with Wichita in 1904.—Bulletin.

$$$

The game at Vincennes Tuesday, between Henderson and Vincennes, resulted in a victory for the latter. The Hens were shut out in this contest, the score being 5 to 0.

$$$

At Princeton Tuesday the Infants won from Paduach. The contest was very close and exciting and resulting in a score of 3 to 2.

MUSSELS FIND MANY USES.

Some Facts About a Familiar Shell-fish—At Its Best in the Spring—How to Cook Them.

Mussels are at their best in the spring. Mussels thrive in bays and inlets, on sandy bottoms, to which, and to one another, they attach by their byssus threads, these being slender filaments issuing from between the shells, says a New York writer. They are sometimes in great beds extending over a hundred acres, thousands of bushels of mussels being obtained in a single bed.

Fishermen go for mussels as soon as the ice is out of the bays in the spring, and sometimes when wind and weather are propitious they sandwich in a trip for mussels between the end of one fishing trip and the beginning of another. There are plenty of mussel beds within easy reaching distance of New York, and once a mussel bed is found for a ton-ton stomp might be deduced up in a single tide.

So with good luck a fisherman could go to a mussel bed 20, 30 or 40 miles distant, get a load of mussels, and the fish in New York, ready to sell them, all within two days.

The profit of the trip depends on what he catches his catch. If there should be many boatloads of mussels in the market at the same time he would get less for them; but if he should happen to come in when mussels were scarce he would get more. If he got, say, $1.25 a barrel, about an average price, and he had from 50 to 75 barrels in his sloop and he had made a quick trip and disposed of his catch quickly there would be fair money in it.

But the fisherman takes chances in mussel fishing, just as he does in every other sort of fishing.

Fishermen sometimes eat mussels fried, but the great bulk of mussels consumed are pickled. The mussels are first boiled, and then picked out of their shells, and then what is called the beard, which consists of the forward ends of the byssus threads, is removed, and with it a little sea into which the mussel is likely to have drawn more or less sand. Then the mussels are put up in jars in pickle, with a few spices added. Pickled mussels have long been a familiar item of free lunch, and people buy them as well to carry home.

The mussel is a much cheaper shellfish than the oyster or the clam, but still it is not eaten to the same extent. There are people with whom the mussel does not agree, because of its rich flavor. But there are epicures who are fond of them, and who like to eat them occasionally, and so mussels may be found on the bills of fare of the finest restaurants.

Junkmen who go into the country buying junk sometimes take down their jangling bells and stow them away somewhere in the wagon and take into the country a wagonload of mussels, which they dispose of to farmers, trading the mussels, maybe, for junk. Pickled mussels have been shipped from New York at least as far away as Chicago; so that, altogether, the quantity of mussels disposed of in the Gotham market is considerable.

Novel Way to Kill Sharks. The engineers in the British navy have a very effective way of killing sharks. They seal up a dynamite cartridge in an empty can, and put the can inside a large piece of pork. The pork is thrown overboard on a wire which has been connected with an electric battery. When the shark takes the bait the engineer presses a button, which explodes the cartridge and kills the fish.

A Beginner. He—The sharks do not seem to be perfected yet. The great problem is how can a man be kept up in the air? She—Well, I saw you out horse-back riding the other day, and it looked very much as if you were in the air most of the time!—Yankees Statesman.

His First Attack. She (tossing with the ring)—And am I the first woman you ever loved? He—No, indeed. At the early age of seven I thought exclusively of eloping with my mother—she says I did.

HOMEOPATHS

In Twentieth Annual Session At Louisville.

The twentieth annual meeting of the homeopathic physicians of the state convened at the Galt House in Louisville yesterday and closes to night. Dr. W. H. Ketchum, of this city, was chosen to deliver an address before the body, and it is needless to say that he acquitted himself in a highly creditable manner. Dr. Ketchum has made a great many friends here who recognize his ability as a physician and regard him highly as a gentleman, and in every way worthy of the honor conferred upon him, as he was the first physician of the homeopathic school to pass before the board of state examiners. There were twelve examined at the same time and Dr. Ketchum won second honors. Only four of this class received certificates.

MUSIC TREAT

By Band Recognized As Having Few Equals.

The May Music Festival to be given at the Tabernacle here May 26-27 will be the greatest musical treat ever given in Southern Kentucky. The programs for the First Regiment Band are well selected and well balanced, and while mainly of the lighter order, from a wide range of composers. The concerts are marked by spirit, brightness, and dash that are always appreciated by the audiences, and call for repeated encores.

While older organizations may have held their own, this band has leaped to the front and distanced them, and it has done it by hard and faithful work by the director, gauging of the popular taste, the freshness of its programs, and the peculiar qualities in the style of its work which make it stand out clearly from the ranks of all other bands.
